Bugging rife at Woodhill

Recording conversations commonplace in prison where ex-cop eavesdropped on MP

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

A FORMER police officer from Milton Keynes has claimed that he bugged a meeting between an MP and a terror suspect at Woodhill Prison.

Mark Kearney, 59, who worked as a police intelligence officer at the jail, alleges he took part in a secret bugging operation at the prison in June 2006.

He said he was under 'significant pressure' from the Metropolitan Police to record conversations between MP Sadiq Khan and his constituent Babar Ahmad.

Mr Kearney's claims came from a leaked document submitted to court for an unrelated case.

Today MK NEWS can also reveal claims made by a former Woodhill prison officer that bugged conversations between inmates and visitors at the jail were commonplace.

The prison source claimed: "With Category A prisoners every single person who comes in to see them would have to apply to us. We used to compile reports about the terrorists that we held and do phone intercepts and letter intercepts.

"We had monthly meetings at one of the high security jails with local police and Special Branch about who inmates had been talking to.

"If something was going on they wanted to know about it.

"They would specifically target a few tables and put the recording facilities under the tables.

"We were fully aware of who was coming in and we decided where they would sit.

"It's Thames Valley Police listening.

"They will do it for specific intelligence.

"There were always two or three local coppers in there."

The security source also alleged that police installed secret surveillance cameras in the roof of the visiting hall without the knowledge of prison staff.

The source added: "Some of the cameras in the roof no-one knew about. I caught them watching it on the monitors before they could turn it off. It's like a poker game – everything's kept so close to the chest. We were normally the last to know.

"I don't think they targeted the MP – they targeted the con because the police want to know about him."

HMP Woodhill has around 50 Category A prisoners and 750 other inmates.

A Government inquiry has now been launched into Mr Kearney's claims led by Chief Surveillance Commissioner Sir Christopher Rose.

A statement from the Ministry of Justice press office said: "Police monitoring operations are a matter for the police and are undertaken in line with the Regulation of Investigatory Powers Act 2000.

"The Prison Service may grant the police permission to operate in prison providing that there are no concerns about order or control.

"Such co-operation is vital in the fight against serious crime and terrorism.

"It would not usually be appropriate for the Prison Service to question the police's decision to monitor an individual; nor would it expect the police to share details of the intelligence cases underpinning its monitoring operations."

Two meetings between Mr Khan and terrorist detainee Babar Ahmad were allegedly bugged.

Mr Khan, a 37-year-old government whip, has campaigned for the release of Mr Ahmad, who was detained in 2003 and is fighting extradition to the United States where he is accused of running terrorist websites.

Police are alleged to have used a hidden microphone, battery, antenna and transmitter in a wooden table in the prison's visiting hall.

A statement from the Metropolitan Police said: "We do not discuss matters of national security but recognise they are subject to proper scrutiny."

The Met said it would 'fully co-operate' with the work of the

New school build plan set to suffer

Council cash for Oakgrove and Hazeley will see other projects 'slip'

Sixth form secured: Oakgrove School and leisure centre

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

MONEY has been ring-fenced for the completion of Oakgrove and Hazeley Schools, but other schools that were in the pipeline will suffer.

Rumours that Oakgrove School would not get its sixth form due to £20million Government cuts have been categorically denied.

But at a meeting on Monday night the cabinet member for funding said that other school projects will 'slip' as a result.

Primary schools on the Western flank, which has not yet been developed, could be built later than planned due to the lack of funds.

Middleton Primary School extension could be put on hold.

It will depend on how much extra funding the Government is prepared to allocate to Milton Keynes.

The news was announced when a parent questioned Cllr Sam Crooks, who is responsible for funding, at a meeting on Monday night.

Parents concerned for their childrens' educational future had set up a 'Finish Oakgrove' campaign.

Cllr Crooks said: "Whatever happens we have to do something for the schools where there are already pupils.

"With the western expansion area there aren't even estates there yet. The Government will give us something, but we don't know what."

If the Oakgrove and Hazeley projects had been put on hold, the millions of pounds already spent on design fees could have implicated a three per cent council tax rise.

Cllr Crooks added: "It was a no brainer."

Prior to the meeting he had already tried to quash the rumours that the final phase of Oakgrove would not be completed, by writing to the head teacher and to everyone in his ward.

Campaigners say rumours started when council officer Mark Dolling wrote in correspondence on December 19: "We hope to complete the final phase of Oakgrove as planned for September 2009.

"This is, however, dependant upon securing sufficient additional resource from the DCSF."

Campaigners updated www.finishoakgrove.org after the meeting, saying: "The cabinet and the Lib Dem council have bowed to parents' demands and given 'cast iron' guarantees that Oakgrove and Hazeley Schools will be completed earlier than the September 2009 deadline.

"It was clearly evident that council officials and our elected councillors had scrabbled around to find the money, slashing the school build programme only days before the public meeting to avoid major political embarrassment."

Caterpillar in school grub

A GIRL bit off a bit more than she could chew when she found a part of a green caterpillar in her school dinner.

The nine-year-old at Tickford School found the creepy-crawly while tucking into her corn-on-the-cob.

The cob was new on the menu since the school introduced hot dinners just two weeks ago.

The company providing the food was council supplier Synergie.

One concerned parent, whose child is a friend of the little girl who found the bug on Thursday, said: "I thought the dinners were quite expensive at £2 a day, but now you seem to be getting that bit extra.

"She went to a dinner lady and also a teacher but was just told to be very quiet about it.

"Until two weeks ago it was a case of bringing your own sandwiches.

"The next day my daughter took her own lunch. And her friend felt quite sick."

A spokesman for Milton Keynes Council said: "It was a piece of caterpillar found on a bit of sweetcorn.

"From time to time 'field debris' can creep into produce, but this is not acceptable and we have had words with the suppliers.

"We apologise for any upset cause here but rest assured, these incidents are very rare."

It is understood that the vegetables were steamed instead of boiled. If they had been boiled the caterpillar would have risen to the surface of the water.

Woodhill Prison inmate bugging

Investigatory Powers Tribunal - an independent body established under the Investigatory Powers Act 2000 to consider any complaints.

The so-called 'Wilson Doctrine' forbids the secret surveillance of MPs without explicit ministerial approval but Justice Secretary Jack Straw said that this interception would only require approval from the Chief Constable rather than ministers.

Peter Neyroud was chief constable of Thames Valley police in 2005 and 2006 when the alleged operation took place but there is no evidence to suggest he was involved.

A statement from Thames Valley Police said: "It would be inappropriate to comment on the allegations that covert recordings of an MP took place at Woodhill Prison, given that the Justice Secretary has announced that there is to be an inquiry.

"Thames Valley Police will co-operate fully with Sir Christopher Rose's inquiry."

Ex-detective sergeant Kearney from Wadworth Holme, Middleton, is facing unrelated disciplinary action after retiring from Thames Valley Police.

He is accused of leaking sensitive details of police operations to the press and will face trial on eight counts of wilful misconduct in a public office.

He told the BBC that he was "shocked and disgusted" that statements from his case had been leaked to the media and expressed concerns over his safety.

Mr Kearney will appear at Kingston-Upon-Thames Crown Court next week, alongside his 20-year-old son and Milton Keynes Citizen reporter Sally Murrer, who is facing charges of aiding and abetting misconduct in a public office.

Ms Murrer, speaking to newspaper industry magazine Press Gazette yesterday described the revelations as 'the missing part of the jigsaw' in her case, which she claimed 'could be one of the biggest cover-ups this country has ever seen'.

Death crash: Carmino Colucci's refuse collection truck at Travis Perkins in Fenny Stratford

Death-crash dustman had been drinking

Carmino Colucci

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

A REFUSE collector who died from a heart attack while at the wheel was one and a half times over the legal alcohol limit for driving, an inquest has heard.

Carmino Colucci was driving the Cory Environmental rubbish van along Simpson Road in Bletchley when he suffered the attack on October 25, 2007, causing the vehicle to veer into the Travis Perkins building.

A colleague of the 47-year-old from Brooklands, Bletchley, described how Mr Colucci became short of breath before going red and then slumping onto his lap just before 7.15am.

Fellow refuse collector Paul Saunders - who was in the passenger seat - had to grab the wheel and steer the vehicle to avoid a head-on collision.

He said: "Just as we got towards Travis Perkins Carmino started gasping for breath.

"All of a sudden he slumped on my lap and I was rubbing his back and saying 'Carmino, are you OK?

"He just wouldn't respond, wouldn't respond at all."

With traffic lights and a bridge ahead, Mr Saunders had to try to control the truck.

He said: "I thought 'Oh God, is this the end for me?' We just hit the wall with an almighty bang.

"His face was bleeding and his eyes were bruised. He was just making these noises."

Emergency services were on the scene within minutes, but Mr Colucci, who has an eight-year-old son, could not be resusitated.

GP Paul Statten, of Redhouse Surgery in Bletchley, said Mr Colucci was at high risk of heart attack being a smoker, drinker and overweight.

Consultant Dr Veejay Desai said that Mr Colucci's alcohol level was one and a half times the legal limit for driving, following toxicology tests on his blood and vitreous humour.

Deputy coroner Tom Osbourne, recording that he died of natural causes, said: "I do commend Paul Saunders for the efforts he made.

"I am satisfied that from the evidence I have heard today it's likely, on the balance of probabilities, that Mr Colucci had suffered his heart attack and had probably died before the collision."

He expressed his condolenses to the family.

Speaking at the time of the incident, his sister Emilia Deering said: "He was everybody's friend.

"He would be out and about in his van and everybody would say hello to him. He loved his job and was well-respected by everyone.

"He was a great father and his nieces and nephews loved spending time with him."

Baby death midwife queried registrar and consultant's treatment decisions

TWO midwives have admitted that they would have done things differently after a baby died following an 'urgent' Caesarean birth at Milton Keynes Hospital.

An inquest heard yesterday that Romy Mae Feast died half-an-hour after her birth on June 2 last year at Milton Keynes Hospital.

Her mother, Elizabeth, from Harlow Crescent, Oxley Park, was at the end of pregnancy with her third child.

She had grown concerned after the baby stopped moving from 9pm the night before and after feeling continuous spasms since midnight. She was admitted to the antenatal day assessment unit at 11.10am where midwife Sheila Quinn began monitoring the baby's heart.

Although the baby's heart rate was high and abnormal, the inquest heard that national guidelines were not followed as the decision to speed up the baby's delivery was not made until 1.45pm, more than two hours after Mrs Feast was admitted.

Mrs Feast was moved to the labour ward at 2.10pm and was given drugs to induce labour, but was unable to deliver the baby so was referred to the operating theatre for an 'urgent' Caesarean.

Further delays due to a busy operating theatre meant the baby was not delivered until 4.15pm.

The baby was not breathing and attempts to resuscitate her were unsuccessful. She was confirmed dead at 4.50pm.

The inquest heard that decisions on how Mrs Feast should be treated were made by the registrar and consultant paediatrician on duty.

When asked whether they agreed with the decisions, midwife Mrs Quinn admitted that she would have carried out a Caesarean earlier and sister Patricia Parker, shift leader on the labour ward, said she would not have used drugs to induce labour. "I questioned it, I thought it was inappropriate as the trace hadn't improved as I expected it to," she said.

Dr Paranjit Samray, on behalf of MK General Hospital Trust, pointed out that working within guidelines is not essential and staff are expected to use some of their own clinical judgement.

Dr Steven Gould, consultant paediatric pathologist, said the baby died of a lack of oxygen supplying the brain.

The inquest continues.

Making light of expansion traffic

SIR – Let's be cynical.

With the current plans to extend westward from Watling Street there are some good points.

We will save money which is not being spent on bridges over grid roads or underpasses which may not be used as is the case now.

Redways will not be required as most roads will be in the 19th and 20th century style ie pavements along the edge of roads at the cost of lives mainly youngsters who have been brought up in the safer environs we have today and even older people who have lived here a long time.

With no grid roads in the new area it will not be possible that we have any through traffic from any further expansion westward in the same direction, it will have to be by-passed or expanded in another direction.

Cllr Williams puts his reputation at stake saying it will be better when he means cheaper, but he will probably not be in his current position when the problems arise.

Is it the intention to put the numerous traffic lights along Watling Street before the so-called increased traffic arrives, or is it to be implemented as and when required?

Is this cynical enough?

I could bring in the issue of schools.

Should they be building these now as no school will be ready on time?

Let's be honest – the council has had more experience of building schools than any other council over the last 30-odd years but continualy fail to meet its own delivery dates.

Is it always the council to blame or are there too many fingers in pockets?

Now two members of senior management at English Partnership have resigned saying they can no longer do the job.

Will someone who actually lives in MK be seconded to fill the void or will other anonymous people from the 'right school' be taking their place?

Whatever happens, people who live work and travel in Milton Keynes will not get the representation they merit.

Name and address supplied

Pity police don't march along Queensway

SIR – I read with interest your story on page 14 in MK NEWS (Jan 30) regarding the police march in London.

It was very nice to see Milton Keynes Police, 80 of them, patrolling the streets of London, along with another 750 from Thames Valley.

Hopefully, one or two of them would have enjoyed the fresh air and exercise and will continue with this activity.

Maybe one or two of them might now patrol the streets of Central Bletchley, where a 'walking' policeman around the Queensway area is about as elusive as the infamous 'big cat' that has been sighted in and around MK in previous years.

I am sure that if they did patrol the streets they would give shoppers in the area a feeling of security while out shopping during these dark evenings, then would receive much more support from the general public regarding their pay dispute.

One other thought – who would have policed this march? Would this be another case of the police policing the police?

Ron Richardson
UK Smokers, Bletchley

Jobs' lot

SIR – Every January we have our local council warning us of the annual proposed increases in the council taxes, and a warning that some services may have to be cut.

Why is it also the month that increases in the council's workforce takes place?

The month of January has just expired and there has already been something like 50 jobs advertised – with the usual council perks I presume?

Why can't the council utilise the existing workforce more efficiently once in a while so that we, for a change, do not have to find the extra cash every year?

D R Armstrong
Crosby Court, Crownhill

Pressure on

SIR – For the last few months, all parties have been working together to find funding for phase three of Oakgrove School, following the reduction by the Government of MK's financial allocation for school-build projects.

Councillors and council officers have been lobbying Government and applying for money from various national budgets.

Both MPs have been lobbying in support of these efforts.

The school, the press and the public were briefed about the lack of sufficient funds and the council's optimism over getting additional funds.

How sad that Jill Hope (MK NEWS letters, January 30) is now denigrating the efforts of one of the groups involved in this important work, implying that funds have been available all along – a position in total contradiction to many media statements by MK's cabinet members (ie her own Lib-Dem Party).

One can understand her fixation with elections, being a parliamentary candidate, but in this part of MK it's the Conservatives that are working for local people all year, every year.

Despite any assurances from MK cabinet that money has been found and Oakgrove will be a priority, parents are advised to continue putting pressure on the council until such proposals are adopted by the MK cabinet and approved by MK council.

Square dance

SIR – The LibDems recently published a story in Campbell Park claiming they'd secured Government funding to improve Station Square, while also improving facilities for local residents.

As a London commuter, I decided to examine the plan.

It states that all long-stay parking is removed, leaving 30 short-stay and 18 disabled bays.

There is no provision for a 'meet and greet' area and lots of room for buses and taxis that the vast majority of rail users don't use.

Who knows where the (approximately) 200 long-stay bays will go, but re-allocating bays somewhere else simply reduces the amount of available bays at a time when there isn't enough long-stay parking.

If the Lib Dems bothered to get out of bed at 6am and go to Station Square they'd realise that all the long-stay bays are full by 6.50am most days.

What happens as MK grows – where will all the new commuters park?

To make matters worse, this 'improvement' is rumoured to cost £6million and will be paid for out of MK's growth area funds.

Wrecking Station Square is certainly not the best use of this money.

Finally, it's laughable to suggest that this plan will benefit the residents of Campbell Park.

Do the Lib Dems really believe that residents of Oldbrook and Fishermead view the station as a social destination?

This plan demonstrates a complete lack of understanding as to how people use the station and wastes vast sums of public money.

The Lib Dems have lost all sense of reality – this plan doesn't just need altering, it needs to be torn up.

John Baker
Broughton

Root out drugs farms

SIR – What a surprise to read in your paper that police had uncovered large amounts of cannabis on Fishermead.

According to your article officers have already found five such cannabis farms this year and they believe there could be many more of them around the city.

Surely now is the time for police to continue their high profile campaign and root out all of the other houses starting with those that still operate on Fishermead rather than leave it for another year when they will find five more.

I'm sure the police will say it's down to resources but if they prioritised better we could stand some chance of eradicating these farms and the people who operate them from our estates once and for all.

Rabbit-proof fence: The Drill Hall allotments which was overrun with rabbits

Rabbits shot as gardeners watch

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

ALLOTMENT holders turned up to tend their vegetables and found gunmen shooting rabbits.

Margaret Burke, from Bradville, left her patch crying on Monday morning after seeing the men with guns, ferrets and dogs at the New Bradwell allotments.

Although rabbits are pests Mrs Burke says there are more humane ways of controlling them.

This week New Bradwell Parish Council, which took over the Drill Hall, Newport Road allotments from Milton Keynes Council a year ago, is having a rabbit-proof fence erected around the area.

But before they do that the rabbits inside the allotment have to be removed so that they don't breed within the patch of 110 allotments.

Hunters from The Shooting Clinic had been asked to deal with the rabbits at the crack of dawn so that allotment holders did not have to witness the shootings.

But Mrs Burke said: "I am really upset. They are eating the crops, it's overrun with rabbits.

Tears: Margaret Burke

"But I had come down because our shed has blown down and to our horror there were two guys here with shot guns, ferrets and dogs.

"We grow everything, we love it, but we have now said we are going to give up our tenancy.

"As an animal lover it's horrendous to know they're doing this when there are humane ways of dealing with it.

"It's so wicked, these poor old rabbits don't ask for much out of life. By shooting today rabbits can still get into the site. They should have waited until the fencing was up."

Mrs Burke and her friend Paula Bonarius had already put rabbit-proof fencing up around her four-allotment patch to stop them eating her crops.

She suggested using rabbit traps or contraceptives.

Alan Francis, chairman of New Bradwell Parish Council, said: "We agreed to put the rabbit-proof fence around it, that's happening this week.

"There are some inside and they will have to be cleared otherwise the problem will continue.

"It was not meant to happen in the way it did. We are talking to the contractor to find out what happened.

"It is very much a one off."

The fencing will cost the parish council around £3,000 to erect.

ASDA shock man still off work

AN ASDA worker who had his shoulder blade blown apart when he received an electric shock at the store on New Year's Eve, is still off work.

Ian Dalgarno, 46, was thrown through the air when he touched one of the store's mobility scooters that was plugged into the mains.

The store manager has conducted an internal and independent inspection of the mobility scooter and has passed the information to health and safety officers at Milton Keynes Council.

Mr Dalgarno, who is also a Mid Beds district councillor, is currently recovering from his injuries at Chase Hill Road, Arlesey.

He is not expected to return to work for another month.

The married father of two has damaged his shoulder and has been left unable to drive or dress himself.

It is believed that he was locking up the store when he received the shock.

He needed to move the mobility scooter to bring the metal shutters down.

The store has the scooters for its disabled customers.

Now he is in constant pain.

A spokesman for Milton Keynes Council said: "We are investigating a possible electric shock and the injuries sustained to an employee at the Asda store on new year's eve.

"The incident happened when a member of staff was closing down the shop at 6.30pm.

"We are working very closely with the Asda store manager and the investigation is still ongoing."

Mr Dalgarno said: "I got a massive shock. At first I couldn't let go of the scooter, then I was thrown through the air and landed on my shoulder. It was terrifying and I honestly thought I was going to die.

"When I was in hospital doctors said the electric shock had blown my shoulder blade apart and now I have to wait until the tendons and muscles have healed and will not be back at work for at least another month."

Custody record error contributed to death

Police doc ticked the right box but data was not put on computer form

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

A 'SYTEM failure' at Thames Valley Police contributed to the death of a mentally vulnerable man, an inquest has heard.

Workers from The Park's Trust found Michael Morton's body in bushes 200 metres from Milton Keynes Police Station at 8.50am on November 29, 13 days after being released from custody.

The 37-year-old of Stolford Rise, Tattenhoe, was still dressed in a yellow custody tracksuit.

A jury of ten returned a narrative verdict on Friday in which they said he had died from natural causes of ketoacidosis and epilepsy, but that police system failures had contributed to his death.

Police Dr Arvind Karia, who had seen Mr Morton several times while he was in custody and believed his daze-like state was the result of an epileptic fit, ticked a box on a paper form recommending that a responsible adult be notified so they could meet him when he was bailed.

But the information was not transferred to a computerised form later used by custody officers and Mr Morton was released alone in the early hours of November 16.

He had had behavioural problems and had been involved with social services in the past.

The doctor had instructed officers to get Mr Morton's epilepsy medicine which he had not taken since the day before his arrest for shoplifting, but they were unable to get into his house.

The jury's spokesman said: "Michael Morton died of natural causes to which a system failure contributed.

"He was in custody at Milton Keynes Police Station on the evening of November 15, 2006. The force medical examiner recommended for an appropriate adult to come to the station for Michael Morton but this was not tranferred to computerised custody records.

"On that custody record it was recorded that an appropriate adult was not required.

"Michael Morton was granted bail by a custody sergeant who relied on Michael Morton's custody record."

A spokesman for Thames Valley Police said: "As in all cases where there has been police contact in the hours or days before an individual's death, the Independent Police Complaints Commission was informed by the force.

"By June last year the inquiry had been completed and a number of recommendations made, including providing management advice to the custody staff involved during his detention and release.

"Thames Valley Police have carefully considered the recommendations made as a result of the investigation and have made changes to our processes particularly in respect of the necessity to contact an appropriate adult in cases such as this, to ensure that the lessons learned from the death of Mr Morton are incorporated into our working practices.

"The force acknowledges today's verdict by the jury."

After the three-day inquest Mr Morton's family declined to comment.

Coroner Rodney Corner said: "It's a very sad case to listen to."

She received two Guinness World Records, one for becoming the oldest woman ever to have walked and skied to the Magnetic North pole and the second for becoming the first mother and son team to complete the same feat.

She will recount her adventure at Newton Court, Hoppers Hill, Olney, on Thursday, February 21.

Pegasus Retirement Homes is inviting senior citizens to attend the talk, which will begin at 11am.

Flippin marvelous: Amanda Brear races to victory

Amanda's 69-second dash to pancake glory

PANCAKE fever swept the streets of Olney yesterday as competitors took part in the world-famous pancake race.

Amanda Brear raced her way to victory in 69 seconds while her seven-year-old son Benjamin won the Olney Middle School children's race earlier in the day

Legend has it that the historic race started in 1445, when a harassed housewife dashed to church after hearing the bells, while still clutching her frying pan containing a pancake.

Now apron-clad contestants compete against racers in the town of Liberal in Kansas, USA, to see who can record the fastest time.

As usual, the race attracted an impressive crowd as competitors ran the 415-yard course from the market place down to the church.

The oldest competitior was Rena Partridge, 78, who a few years ago had her hip replaced and was running the race for charity for the first time in ten years.

Local, not London waste

MILTON Keynes may be forced to become London's waste dumping ground by demands from the Government.

A Government inspector's report on Milton Keynes Council's draft Waste Development Plan document (WDPD) has required the council to include details of how it will make specific provision to accommodate a proportion of London's waste.

The council is bound into making the changes the inspector demands and to adopting the plan as soon as possible.

MK NEWS revealed in 2007 how the city already took the capital's waste when it was diverted from Brogborough when the site was closed for technical reasons.

The Brogborough site closed last week.

Despite objections from council members during its draft consultation, the South East Plan 2006 states that Milton Keynes should take more than 10 per cent of London's residual waste – 160,000 tonnes every year.

This would treble the amount of waste at the city's landfill site in Newton Longville.

Councillors have expressed concern that the plans would lead to three times as many lorry movements to the site in Bletchley and could force the council to open another landfill site.

The inspector's report demands that the WDPD, which will provide the basis for all waste development planning decisions in Milton Keynes, should conform with the South East Plan.

Cabinet member for the environment, Cllr Douglas McCall, said: "The law has been changed so the views of the Government inspector are forced onto local council's regardless of the views of local people or elected representatives.

"The Lib Dem cabinet remains opposed to London's waste coming to Milton Keynes as it is not environmentally sustainable.

"We also believe that priority should be given to local waste.

"We have gained a concession from the inspector in that he recognises that local waste should be given priority and this may help reduce the amount of London's waste coming to Milton Keynes."

The council's cabinet was due to discuss the report in a meeting last night.

Health chiefs set out to stop you dying for a fag

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

"FIVE minutes smoking a cigarette takes 12 minutes off your life," is just one of the messages being spread to encourage smokers to give up as part of a new £1million campaign.

The Quit for Life campaign was launched by NHS South Central on Monday using graphic images to drive home the message that smoking kills.

The initiative, which is the largest of its type to take place in Britain, involving nine primary care trusts and includes Milton Keynes.

It covers five counties including Buckinghamshire, Berkshire, Oxfordshire, Hampshire and the Isle of Wight.

There are around 706,000 smokers over the age of 18 in the area.

Health chiefs are aiming to make personal contact with 12,000 of these and ensure 7,000 set a quit date by the end of March.

The target is to have 3,500 'actual quitters' by the end of the campaign.

In addition to the images, two 'battle buses' will be touring the region for 40 days offering help and support to smokers who want to quit.

This will include age progression technology which artificially aged a person's face using a computer program, carbon monoxide monitoring and a team of advisers on board.

Smoking cessation clinics and an extensive telephone support service, which will be run by health professionals, will also form part of the campaign, together with specialist clinics in the workplace and shopping centres.

Prof John Newton, regional director of public health for NHS South Central said: "Giving up smoking is the single most useful thing anyone can do to improve their health and the NHS is trying to do everything it possibly can to help smokers to quit.

"This campaign is intended to show what can be achieved if we raise our game to a level not previously attempted in terms of a publicity drive.

"We have learned a lot from previous campaigns and we know the message has to be starkly communicated if it is going to have sufficient impact.

"We therefore make no apologies for the hard-hitting nature of the campaign as there is a lot at stake in terms of the health of the population."

Figures from 2005/2006 show that there were around 27,200 smoking related admissions to hospital in the South Central region during a 12 month period.

The annual cost of these was around £47million.

Attacker beaten off with walking stick

A WOMAN used her walking stick to beat off a man who attacked her near a city canal.

The 55-year-old victim was walking back from the Secret Garden, close to the Stratford Road, Wolverton, when she was assaulted at 2.30pm on Sunday, January 27.

As she walked along the canal back through the railway bridge by Blue Bridge a stocky man attacked her but she beat him away and he escaped along Culberston Lane.

The victim was not injured but was left shaken and upset by the incident.

Police described the offender as a white man with fair skin, aged about 30.

He is approximately 5ft 8ins and stocky and wore a dark coloured beanie hat, dark gloves, a navy blue fleece and a dark tracksuit.

Making room for a house share explosion

As Milton Keynes grows and house prices rise, applications to convert homes into multiple occupancy housing are going through the roof. MK NEWS reporter Laura Hannam met with landlords, tenants and councillors to find out how the issue is affecting the city

MK Council private sector housing officer Jane Harrison and landlord Mario Calamassi

SOME say houses in multiple occupancy (HiMOs) are an essential part of housing provision in Milton Keynes, offering cheap accommodation to those who are trapped by the ever increasing difficulty of getting onto the housing ladder.

Others cry foul and say HiMOs cause a nuisance in communities with young, noisy tenants producing more rubbish and causing parking chaos with dozens of cars.

Whichever side you are on it is clear that the number of HiMOs in Milton Keynes is rocketing.

In 2006 Milton Keynes Council dealt with 64 HiMO planning applications. This grew to 73 in 2007.

Most HiMOs seem to be located in Conniburrow and Fishermead.

Irene Henderson, cabinet member for housing said: "In Milton Keynes it is increasingly an issue as we have never had this kind of size of population without the affordable housing for them.

"If you go to Oxford, or Cambridge or one of the university cities they have had HiMOs forever so this is not the kind of big deal that it is for us.

"The last Housing Needs study showed that 12.5 per cent of all our homes in Milton Keynes are privately rented and this was not the case a few years ago."

"For Milton Keynes it is very much a growing thing because of the house prices."

Mario Calamassi, a landlord who owns three HiMOs, showed me around one of his houses in the city centre, which is occupied by five people paying an average of £100 per week.

He said a real mix of people stay at his properties though most are young professionals.

Some stay on short term contracts of three months or so, but the majority stay for a year or more.

He said there are landlords that don't play by the rules but HiMO owners should not all be tarred by the same brush.

"People that don't do the job right need to be taken to task but I don't see why we should all get bad press as we do give a good service to the tenants of Milton Keynes."

"There is a market for HiMOs as a lot of young people are leaving home and can't get on the property ladder.

"Plus you never know when your circumstances might change and you need a place like this.

"We have quite a few divorcees staying here and a lot of foreign people coming in."

HiMOs are inspected and issued with licenses by the housing department at Milton Keynes Council to ensure they are safe, secure, well managed and not over occupied.

The council's planning committee also decides whether a house can be converted to allow multiple occupancy, looking at parking, waste storage facilities and sound insulation.

Legally only properties that are three or more storeys high, with five or more occupants and two or more 'households' need to be licensed.

Jane Harrison, private sector housing officer at the council said: "We are actively encouraging people to apply for a licence and if we come across properties that haven't got one when we inspect then we are taking the necessary action.

"But we get an awful lot of people who phone up or write in about properties that are of concern to them and we find that there is a high percentage that are not HiMOs, they are just extended families.

"The perception is much higher than the reality."

Daniel Garcia, who lived in a HiMO in Grange Farm when he moved to Milton Keynes in 2006, admitted that during the year he stayed there he did receive complaints from neighbours.

"They usually complained about parking as there was six rooms in the house and we all had cars and if we had mates visiting there would be even more.

"They also complained about the bins a couple of times as in a shared house no-one really takes responsibility for putting bins out."

"There was a fast turnover there, I'd say the average people stayed was around six months."

"I think the neighbours did think of us as the student or immigrant house."

Mr Garcia said he moved into a HiMO due to the convenience provided by a short-term contract and the low cost.

"I was told that to rent your own flat was around £700 a month just for the rent, whereas I paid £450 for a room including all the bills."

"I also got to meet lots of different people and to make friends, which would have been hard otherwise moving to a new city."

Cllr Sam Crooks has warned that the spread of HiMOs could cause problems in inappropriate estates.

He has mounted a campaign against two applications to convert houses into multiple occupancy accommodation in Milton Lane, Broughton.

"I have no problem with HiMOs, I started off in digs myself, however I think the difficulty is they have to be in the right area," he said.

"If you let too many houses in a very small community be let to people who are there for six months to a year you don't get a sense of roots.

"I hope that we will always look at HiMOs in the context of their estate and not say that one rule applies across the whole of the city."

Doubts over kicked-out kids GCSE exam chances

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

PUPILS who attend a unit for children who've been kicked out of school are concerned for their education after it was announced that it is to close.

Year ten youngsters and their parents are furious after being told that they might not be able to take their GCSEs.

The Young People Out of School (YPOS) referral unit, which is based in a temporary building on the site of Oakgrove School and currently looks after 17 pupils who can't use mainstream education, became the subject of a consulation last week.

Pupils in year 11 have been told they can still do their GCSE exams.

Robert McKenzie, whose son Kenny is in year ten, had his council-arranged individual meeting with assistant education director Tim Read last Friday.

He said: "To be told today that they can't guarantee they will do their GSCEs means they are taking away all the opportunities they've got."

The curriculum, used for the pupils aged between 14 and 16, aims to divert them from anti-social and criminal behaviour so they can fulfill their full potential in adult life.

In a letter to parents Mr Read wrote: "As you are aware, we have been reviewing arrangements for alternative provision of secondary pupils for over a year."

But Mr McKenzie and his son say they knew nothing of this.

Debra Scott of Broadwater, Tinkers Bridge, has a 15-year-old daughter in year 11 at YPOS.

She said: "Every parent I've spoken to except one says they were not aware. I am angry about how they've done it all.

"The day that it was in MK NEWS was the same day we received the letter. The first I knew of it was when my daughter came out of school and they were all crying and hugging each other.

"My daughter was so upset, she was breaking her heart.

"None of us parents was called in to have any meetings, then they told the pupils before the parents."

The council hopes to have new arrangements in place by the end of this term in April.

Mr Read said last week, when the closure was announced: "We are only talking about 17 students, but we realise this may cause people concerns and we want them to be involved every step of the way.

"We know the value that YPOS has added to the learning of many young people in Milton Keynes and we are sure that these discussions will help us to build provision that will serve more young people better for years to come."

The magnificent seven finish Tough Guy race

But trainer loses out after hurdling a hay bale and twisting an ankle

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

A TEAM of eight novices from Milton Keynes have tackled a gruelling cross country race over terrifying obstacles.

Although their personal trainer was forced to drop out due to an injury, the group all completed the Tough Guy competition on Sunday January 28.

The ten mile course, on a farm in South Staffordshire, is a test of physical and mental endurance designed to take competitors beyond their limits on obstacles known as The Killing Fields.

The obstacles include crawling under barbed wire and through underwater tunnels, jumping over bales of hay that are set on fire, log climbs up to 40ft high, rope walks over stinging nettles and much more.

The group trained together for five months with 31-year-old personal trainer Simon Williams, from Emerson Valley, who took part in the race last January and completed the Iron-Man triathlon in June.

The team planned to complete the course together, but unfortunately Simon was forced to drop out after injuring his ankle.

"I had damaged my ankle a few weeks ago sky diving and probably shouldn't have taken part in the race really but I wanted to support the team," he said.

His ankle gave way when he was jumping over a hay bale onto uneven land and he was rescued from the middle of a field by an ambulance and taken to hospital.

"I was disappointed as we wanted to finish together but everyone did the course, so it shows how tough they have become.

"I am over the moon for them."

He said he was especially proud of 45-year-old Liz Carrighan from BilBrook, Furzton, and Lou Atkinson, 32, from Great Holm who completed the course alone after dropping behind to help him.

"There was few other competitors left so they had to motivate each other," he said.

Liz said finishing the race was fantastic and she already plans to take part next year.

"It was just brilliant, a real achievement," she said. "I was so grateful to Simon as it was not quite as hard as I thought it would be because of the training we have done. I think the hardest obstacle was walking the plank as it was really narrow and you could easily fall in the water.

"The cargo net climbs were also very high."

Entries for the Tough Guy event raise money for a horse sanctuary in Tattenhall, South Staffordshire.

The rest of the team included Andy Bell, 44, from Newton Longville, Olly Tomlinson, 20, from Cranfield, Amy Ball, 28, from Deanshanger, Jon Rainford, 25, from Broughton, Russell Brazier, 25, from Central Milton Keynes and Aleck Holshaw, 34, from Loughton.

Colossus: On public display at The National Museum of Computing at Bletchley Park

Code cracker wins Colossus valve as prize

AN amateur cryptographer who beat the British World War II computer Colossus in a code-cracking challenge has been honoured for his skills.

Joachim Schueth solved a German cipher in just 46 seconds, more than three hours quicker than the 60-year-old PC.

He received a prize from the National Museum of Computing, which included a valve from the Colossus machine.

Mr Schueth deciphered the code using a laptop and a program he wrote specifically for the challenge.

"It was unfair because I was using a modern PC, while Colossus was created more than 60 years ago," he said. "It really is astonishing and humbling that the world's first programmable, digital computer was created in the 1940s."

The Cipher Challenge took place in November 2007 at Bletchley Park, the home of early UK computing efforts, and marked the end of a project to rebuild Colossus.

Tony Sale, who has spent the last 14 years rebuilding the machine said: "Joachim really showed how things have advanced from the days of Colossus."

"As well as recapturing the excitement that the Bletchley Park code breakers must have felt, the Cipher Challenge has more importantly highlighted the magnitude of their achievement, their tenacity and their ingenuity."

Mr Schueth competed against other code breakers and a Colossus Mark II machine last November.

The target messages were encoded with a Lorenz S42 machine - as used by the German high command - and were transmitted by a team of radio enthusiasts in Paderborn, Germany.

Colossus, the size of a bus, took three hours and fifteen minutes to unravel the code. Mr Schueth took just 46 seconds.

"My laptop digested ciphertext at a speed of 1.2 million characters per second – 240 times faster than Colossus," he said. "If you scale the CPU frequency by that factor, you get an equivalent clock of 5.8 MHz for Colossus. That is a remarkable speed for a computer built in 1944.

"Even 40 years later many computers did not reach that speed."

There were 10 Colossus machines built in the 1940s. They were key in shortening the war by revealing German troop movements to the Allied forces.

All of the machines were broken up after the war to keep their workings secret.

Gunpoint robbery attempt

A MAN was threatened at gunpoint as four men tried to rob him.

The 43-year-old victim was attacked as he crossed the overbridge into Fishermead, along Porthleven Place between 2.30am and 3am on Saturday.

The gang threatened him and demanded money before a struggle broke out. The victim was chased across the bridge suffering from head injuries.

Police believe the gun used was a replica and described the attackers as white, in their early 20s and between 5ft 10ins and 6ft 2ins tall.

One was wearing a long-sleeved white jacket and had short, light brown hair.

Anyone who saw the men or has any information can contact DC Matthew Mills on 08458 505505.

Txt support 4 kids suffering bullying

Founder of 'Heads High' campaign starts national mobile service

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

Anti-bully line: Alex Holmes and director of Memogo Ltd, David Kerindi

A TEENAGER has decided to go mobile with his anti-bullying campaign.

Alex Holmes, 19, began his 'Heads High' campaign at Kingsbrook Business and Enterprise College in Deanshanger three years ago, after he was bullied at the age of 15.

This week he launched an innovative national mobile phone service.

The mobile channel, provided by Memogo Ltd, has been designed and created to give victims of bullying a new means of communication and information that can be accessed at all times.

The service features in-depth details of Alex's experience and sections titled 'You're Not Alone' and 'Are You A Bully?'.

Alex said: "Although information about bullying on the Internet or in leaflets is very good, the mobile channel can be taken with you everywhere you go and will be updated weekly.

"Having access to information when you're most alone is very important and the new Memogo service does exactly this.

"Bullying isn't just about physically hurting someone – today it's delivered through technology such as e-mail and text messaging.

"There have been several reports of mobile phones being used as a tool to intimidate people but we want to turn this around and use mobiles to beat the bullies."

Last year Alex produced a 'Stand Up' television advert for national organisation Beatbullying, which included appearances from Kelly Holmes and GMTV presenter Clare Nasir.

Alex's channel can be accessed by texting 'memo alex' to 82055, which prompts a link to the channel.

Unlimited access costs £1 a year and all proceeds will be donated to an anti-bullying charity.

City launch for self-help scheme

A NATIONAL scheme to tackle bullying in schools will be launched in Milton Keynes.

The Life Skills for Children programme, a new initiative in personal safety and communication skills for children, will be launched at Ousedale School, Newport Pagnell on Tuesday.

The programme, developed by experts from the Realistic Self Defence Association of Newport Pagnell, is to be deployed nationally in over 25,000 schools.

It consists of a series of one hour sessions delivered initially by teachers and then by selected children who will teach younger pupils. The four-week programme has been piloted at schools in Luton and Buckinghamshire.

Gary Payne, the scheme's founder, said: "This is a non-physical approach to personal safety, involving awareness skills and protective behaviours.

"An increasing number of children are being bullied at some point in their life and Life Skills for Children teaches them the skills they need to counteract this.

"It also allows children to grasp an understanding of social responsibility and how to positively interact with others.

"It has improved communication amongst students, their teachers and their parents."

Late Christmas present: Shaun Hussain and his wife Afshan have been rehoused

Baby-loss pair in new home

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

A FAMILY who lost a baby due to the stress of being tormented by racist bullies has finally been rehoused.

More than two months ago Shaun and Afshan Hussain went for their first scan to find that Afshan had miscarried, and only now has the council found them a new home.

The couple had been living in fear since they moved Stirling House in West Bletchley three years ago.

They've had eggs thrown at their window, a video thrown at their window, and been verbally abused in the street.

But after vandals used black marker pen to scrawl racist comments on their door Afshan, who was six weeks pregnant at the time, reached an all time low.

Scared and became depressed, she went to her GP at Whaddon House Surgery and he wrote to Milton Keynes Council recommending that they were moved.

Dr Amel Garshoum's letter said: "She was upset and concerned about the well-being of herself and her baby due to being harrassed anonymously at her home, where graffiti has been written in front of her door.

"I would appreciate your help in arranging for this lady and her family to relocate to more suitable accomodation."

Doctors told them it was likely Afshan miscarried five or six weeks before, around the time that the racist vandals struck. At the time, despite getting the maximum number of points in a scoring system that sorts out which tenants can be rehoused, they were told there were no houses.

Mr Hussain accused the council of negligence.

Around Christmas they were told one had been found, but it fell through. Now they have finally been moved.

This week Shaun said: "The house is in great shape, it's in a nice quiet neighbourhood, so apart from a few repairs it would seem the council finally came through.

"The council has to learn from every mistake made in my case and ensure people with similar circumstances are dealt with more quickly."

Navrita Atwal, director of the Milton Keynes Racial Equality Council, said: "We are thrilled that Shaun Hussain and his family have been rehoused.

"Nothing can compensate for the loss of their unborn baby and the racial trauma they have been through.

"We hope that they will be able to start a new life that will enable them to live without the fear of racial harassment or abuse."

A spokesman for the council said: "We don't have an inexhaustible supply of council properties in Milton Keynes.

"However, this couple have been through a lot, and because of their very exceptional circumstances, we were able to help them with a move."

Back to the future for 'space-age' housing

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

REVISIONS are to be carried out on plans for housing near Kingsmead after residents protested against the 'space-age' designs.

MK NEWS reported recently that Shenley Brook End and Tattenhoe Parish Council objected against a detailed application for the first stage of a development south of Kingsmead as the planned housing is 'inappropriate'.

Outline planning permission for 460 dwellings was granted to applicant Lagan Homes by Milton Keynes Partnership in 2006 and detailed proposals for the first phase, including 160 dwellings, have now been submitted.

Last week, Cllr Keith Thomas, a resident of Kingsmead, said the planned housing was unsympathetic with the existing buildings.

"They are space-age, pre-fab like boxes in various shades of grey and black with flat roofs," he said.

After a meeting with parish councillors, Milton Keynes Partnership has agreed to look at making changes.

A spokesman for the partnership said: "We can confirm that as a result of feedback received on the Kingsmead South development, which included comments from the parish councils, MKP is currently working with Milton Keynes Council to make changes to the design of some of the properties in order to reflect the existing housing on Kingsmead North.

"MKP will aim to review the plans at the MKPC Planning Sub Committee in March."

Cllr Keith Thomas added: "We feel that the revised proposals, if implemented, would satisfy most of the residents' concerns."

Work should start on the site in April.

Dragon Boat race plans

PLANS for this year's Dragon Boat Festival at Willen Lake have been unveiled.

Gable Events and electricity4business are supporting the event set for Sunday, June 29.

E4B marketing manager Lynette Havenga Stokes said: "As one of the fastest growing companies in Milton Keynes, we are keen to play a vital part within the MK community and want to provide practical support to local businesses. All of us at E4B are really proud to support our nominated charity Keech Cottage children's hospice, where we want to make a real difference to local people."

An amazing £20,000 was raised for Keech Cottage by teams last year including more than £3,500 each from Argos and the fabulously named 'Hopelessly Sinking But Cheerful' team representing HSBC who won the charity trophy.

The hospice supports families from across Milton Keynes, Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire who are facing the loss of their child. All the children cared for have been diagnosed with a life-limiting condition and most are expected to die in childhood.

Organiser Merklyn Hauck, director of Gable Events added: "Local companies have already discovered the benefits of dragon boat racing for team building, motivation and staff morale."

Leapfrog year: This redeye frog needs help

Jump to stop frogs croaking

A BIG leap is taking place at Aerial Extreme to help save the world's frogs.

Animal enthusiasts are being sponsored to jump in with both feet at the aerial rope course at Willen Lake.

Wannabe leapers who fancy jumping from a 40ft tower on leap year day are welcome to join in.

Organisers are encouraging people to raise a minimum of £20 sponsorship for the international Amphibian Ark campaign. All proceeds will go straight to that.

This year is the Year of the Frog and campaign organisers have recruited Sir David Attenborough as their patron to raise awareness of the plight of frogs worldwide.

Experts believe that up to half of all amphibian species could die out in the near future in the biggest mass extinction since the disappearance of dinosaurs.

Site manager at Aerial Extreme, Antoine Borysiewicz, saw the natural link between the course's big drop and the charity.

He said: "We're delighted to be doing our bit to support this important campaign and we hope visitors will give generously to support our fund raising activity in support of this very good cause.

"Frogs and toads are extraordinary animals but without immediate conservation action hundreds of species could die out within the next few years.

"The Big Leap has been organised as a high-profile way of raising awareness of the Amphibian Ark and to raise much-needed funds for the campaign."

Amphibians are severely affected by habitat loss, climate change, pollution and pesticides, as well as by over-collection for use as food or pets. However, the most urgent problem facing frogs and toads is chytrid fungus, a disease that is deadly to amphibians which has been spreading from Africa across the planet over the last 50 years.

In the wild, chytrid fungus is unstoppable and untreatable.

In the environments where it thrives it can kill 80 per cent of amphibians within months.

Now campaigners want to raise £25million to rescue endangered frogs and place them in 'protective custody' in hundreds of zoos and aquariums around the world to ensure their long-term survival.

For more information, contact Aerial Extreme on 0870 850 2808 or e-mail Kelly@aerialextreme.co.uk

MK hospital trials lung cancer drug

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

A DRUG that could save the lives of patients with lung cancer is being trialled at Milton Keynes Hospital.

Researchers at the hospital are taking part in one of the world's largest lung cancer clinical trials investigating how a blood thinning drug might help prevent blood clots in lung cancer patients.

The Cancer Research UK-funded trial is investigating whether a drug called dalteparin can treat this problem and whether the drug may also improve the survival of lung cancer patients.

People with lung cancer are at an increased risk of blood clots in their veins because of chemotherapy, surgery, inactivity or the lung cancer itself.

The trial also aims to discover whether dalteparin has an anti-cancer effect, leading to an improvement in quality of life and survival rates after lung cancer diagnosis.

Valerie Webb, Cancer Research nurse at Milton Keynes Hospital, said: "Participation in the new trial is one of the ways we are working hard to find better and more effective ways to treat this difficult illness.

"Lung cancer is not only a smoker's disease. It's important that people visit their GP as soon as possible if they are concerned, to get the best treatment possible. "

Milton Keynes Hospital is set to recruit 15 patients for the stage 3 trials over the next year.

Some patients will have standard treatment for lung cancer and others will also have and a dalteparin injection once a day for 24 weeks.

Healthy lung

Diseased lung

Kate Law, Cancer Research UK's clinical trials director, said: "It's vital we continue to research new treatments and also improve existing treatments for the disease."

Kids going flippin' crazy for cash

PUPILS at Southwood School went pancake crazy yesterday to raise money to help the elderly

The school is taking part in the MK Business Challenge, the innovative fundraising project set up by The ExtraCare Charitable Trust, to support older people across the city.

Sponsored by NatWest, ExtraCare is offering £50 to 50 organisations across Milton Keynes, with the challenge of growing the money to see who makes the most.

Proceeds will help fund health and leisure facilities at ExtraCare's new Lovat Fields Village which is already offering life-changing opportunities for over 500 older people across the city.

The Conniburrow school was charging 30p a pancake and hoped to flip around 250 to go towards their fund.

MK NEWS is offering a special prize to the school which brings in the most money from the challenge. The competition runs until the end of March.

ExtraCare's Sue Bromfield with Donna Hayes, Sharon Slaven, Carol Davenport and children Ryan, Tommy and Filsan of Southwood School

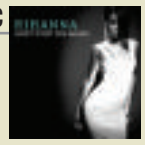
DON'T STOP THE MUSIC



Rihanna

THERE'S meant to be this thing called Six Degrees Of Separation, in which you're supposed to be able to connect yourself to anyone else in the world in six moves or fewer – you should try playing me at chess, I can usually lose in the same number of moves.

I don't really think that works in the world of popular music though, and that's mainly thanks to the delights of sampling.

Take this song for example.

Manu Dibango to Rihanna in two moves. Here goes – way, way back in 1972 the man Manu released a single called Soul Makossa, and eleven years later some unknown called Michael Jackson used the chant from that song on Wanna Be Startin' Somethin'.

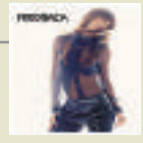
I can only guess that at the time he named the song he had a serious grudge against the letter G, but anyway, both the chant and Jackson's whooping and hollering (or whoopin' and hollerin') have been used to provide background noise to this, the 700th single from Rihanna's latest album, and probably the best of the lot.

There's not a great deal to it really – the drum loop bashes away from start to finish, Rihanna sings throughout and if there is a tune to this song, it's probably lying in bed somewhere with a massive hangover.

Doesn't matter though, what's here works just fine. Mind you, she's going to have to do something about that stutter of hers that seems to pop up every time she sings the name of the song. First it was 'Umbrella ella ella', then it was 'Shut up and drive drive drive', and now it's 'Please don't stop the please don't stop the please don't stop the music'.

I believe it was Morris Minor and the Majors who once said 'There's something very wrong with your vocal technique when the 12ins mix goes on for a week' – and she'd do well to learn from that advice.

FEEDBACK



Janet Jackson

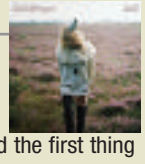
BLIMEY, Janet Jackson, there's a name from the past. She's the one who sang The Best Things In Life Are Free with Luther Vandross a while back, a sentiment entirely missed by the record company seeing as they went on to charge the going rate for the single, which may tell you what they thought of the song.

Still, time moves on and these days, by the sounds of things, she's now best friends with Mr Vocoder, which is never a good move in my book.

In fact, this sounds as though it's come from exactly the same place that Britney Spears's last couple of singles did.

When it comes to the song, it's all about the repetitive beats and minimal melody – a bit like Rihanna's new one only not as good.

A&E



Goldfrapp

WHEN you hear a song and the first thing that springs to mind is 'Erasure were doing this sort of thing and better 15 years ago', there's a problem.

Fair play to Goldfrapp for moving in a different direction, but this isn't anywhere near as good as stuff like Lovely Head or Train.

In fact, it's a bit twee.

By their own standards, this one's comparitively forgettable.

Still, on the bright side, at least it's only the first song off the album. There might be better to come.

CHAMBERS & NETTLETON
Tomorrow
NORTHERN lasses Chambers and Nettleton are emerging triumphant as one of the brightest comic duos on the circuit today. The only female double act cutting it on the live comedy circuit, they are fast gaining a reputation for their warmth, infectious charm and caustic wit. Their success is not just contained to live work though; a major project with Mediatheme will see the duo performing recorded performances in over 300 venues nationwide, not to mention Lynn's appearance on Churchill's latest TV ad campaign.

He has been performing stand-up in the UK and internationally for over 6 years since blagging his way onto the stage at The Comedy Store in Los Angeles. IN THE GARDEN

ALTHOUGH winter is still here the spring bulbs are forcing their way into view.

Snowdrops, aconites and anemones are all beginning to make an appearance.

To save yourself having to walk down to the garden to see them why not brighten up your porch with our easy to make spring hanging basket and matching trough.

The ones shown are quick and simple and will really cheer you up on a dull day.

We have used a 12ins willow hanging basket and filled it with:
■ Three 9cm pots of creamy yellow Primrose Emily
■ Two pots of tete a' tete (or other miniature narcissus)
■ Two 9cm pots of trailing ivy (hedera), yellow variegated (You can usually split the plant into a few sections)
■ Multipurpose compost

To co-ordinate we have used a small (12ins) terracotta trough, the slightly paler Heritage Primrose and some Muscari. However you could repeat the same plants as the basket.

Don't forget to water lightly after planting

JOBS TO DO IN FEBRUARY

■ Spread mulch before plants get too large. Use a thick layer of compost, bark or manure on borders and between trees, shrubs, roses and fruit. (If you spread manure over the surface the worms will eventually work it into the soil and save you a job.)

■ If you plan on digging, cover the ground with a large sheet of clear polythene. This will warm up the soil and keep heavy rain off. Just roll it back to continue digging when you get time, replacing the polythene afterwards.

■ If the weather turns cold ensure you knock snow from trees and shrubs to prevent its weight breaking branches.

■ In warm pockets you can sow broad beans, early carrots and parsnips under cloches. Shallots can also be planted out. Sow summer cabbage, leeks and onions under cover in a warm propagator.

■ Stand seed potatoes in egg cartons with the rose end (rounded end) up. There are more 'eyes' at that end. Give them plenty of light as they grow.

■ Cover rhubarb crowns with buckets or forcing jars to help promote early pickings. Lift and divide congested clumps.

THE BRIDGE INN
Fenny Stratford
01908 379584
Review by Alicia Babaee

RECENTLY taken over, The Bridge Inn at Fenny Stratford has a huge new menu with a range of tempting dishes. It's ideal for families of fussy eaters as there's something to suit everyone.

Owners Juan and Tammie Medina, are aiming for The Bridge Inn to be a modern pub serving good food at reasonable prices.

We almost felt like we were on the Costa del Sol with colourful fairy lights around the bar and music videos on in the background – the plentiful array of fish dishes on the menu did nothing to suggest otherwise.

The Bridge Inn at Fenny Stratford: Owners Juan and Tammie Medina are aiming for a modern pub serving good food at reasonable prices

Both being fish lovers, we ordered the moules mariniere cooked to order with white wine and garlic (£5.99) and the trio of pan fried Mediterranean king prawns cooked with garlic butter and fresh herbs (£5.50) to start.

They were served with a large basket of bread – freshly baked on the premises – and were fantastic.

The choice of mains is so vast, I had no idea where to start.

Options included cod cooked with white wine and mussels (£9.99), fillet of seabass (£12.99), liver and bacon with red wine sauce (£8.95), venison roasted with blackcurrant sauce, (£17.99), gammon with pineapple salsa or a pineapple ring (£6.99), creamy fish pie (£6.50), bangers and mash (£8.99), a wide range of steaks from £8.99 or pastas from £7.25.

I plumped for the chef's poussin – a marinaded whole spring chicken with garlic and coriander (£9.99), and my partner had the mixed grill (£12.99) which was massive and included sirloin steak, lamb chop, pork chop, gammon steak and butcher's sausages.

Both were served with tasty homemade chips and salad.

The generous portions meant that we were too full for a dessert.

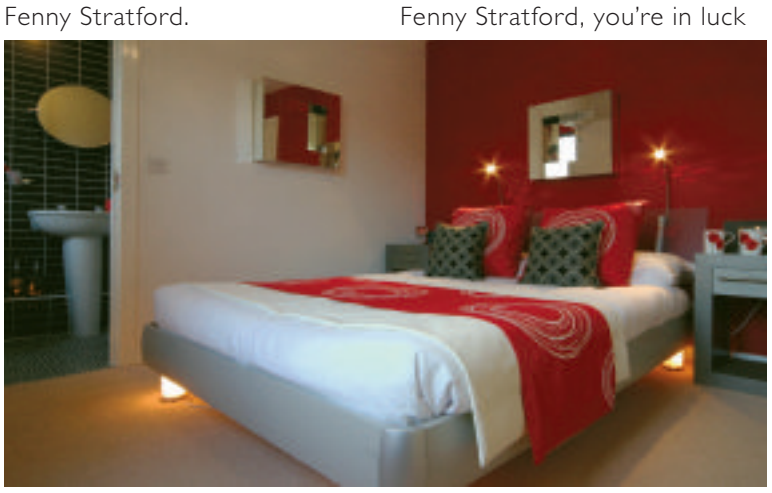
Bellway Homes opens the door to affordability
at Aqua in Fenny Stratford, Milton Keynes

House builder Bellway is taking a head-on approach to affordability with a home purchase scheme called Opening Doors. Bellway will offer customers the chance to buy a new home for 75% of the current market value.

Opening Doors is an innovative scheme specifically designed to reduce by a quarter the financial burden of buying a new home. The offer is available on selected homes at Bellway's Aqua development in Fenny Stratford.



Commenting on the scheme, Chris Edginton, Sales Director at Bellway Northern Home Counties, said: "We have looked very carefully at how we can improve the financial situation for new home buyers. Opening Doors is unique in the way that it provides 100% ownership but reduces the cost of borrowing in the early years when most new home owners are more financially stretched."

If you're looking to buy in Fenny Stratford, you're in luck as the Opening Doors scheme is available on a number of homes at Bellway Homes' Aqua development. If you are looking for a two bedroom apartment priced at £175,000 you will only have to find £131,250 now, meaning that the remaining 25% is deferred for 10 years. There is no interest or rent payable on the 25% funded by Bellway. Another example is a one bedroom apartment priced at £145,000 which you can buy for only £108,750.

Situated on Watling Street, Aqua is a development of one and two bedroom apartments situated on the south side of Milton Keynes in the area of Fenny Stratford. As the name suggests, the development is adjacent to the Grand Union Canal and bordered on the other side by the River Ouzel with water meadows beyond.

Fenny Stratford is a small, busy town on the edge of Milton Keynes.

With a small street of shops, the town has a warm community feel. The town boasts a variety of eateries and bars as well as its own cafe and delicatessen. There is a modern retail park nearby and there are a number of supermarkets in nearby Milton Keynes, while the town itself is a major UK shopping hub with superb malls.

Local transport links are very good. At just half a mile from Aqua is the A5 while the M1 is 4 miles from the development. Nearby Bletchley main line station offers a fast and frequent service to London in around 40-45 minutes.

For further information on schemes to help you move, contact a sales consultant on 01908 646486. The sales & marketing suite is open daily from 10am to 5pm. Further information can also be found at www.bellway.co.uk

*Typical example: Purchase a property valued at £145,000, 75% (£108,750) is payable at the time of purchase. You then pay the other 25% balance at the current market value at the time of repayment which is due on the earlier of sale or remortgage of your home or 10 years from the date of purchase. This is secured by a second mortgage e.g. If the property is sold, or transferred for £150,000 then 25% (£37,500) is payable to Bellway. If the property is sold, or transferred for £200,000 then 25% (£50,000) is payable to Bellway. YOUR HOME MAY BE REPOSSESSED IF YOU DO NOT KEEP UP REPAYMENTS ON A MORTGAGE OR OTHER LOAN SECURED ON IT. BE SURE THAT YOU CAN AFFORD THE REPAYMENTS BEFORE ENTERING INTO A CREDIT AGREEMENT. Selected plots only – subject to applicant's status. Prices correct at time of going to press. Subject to Bellway's terms and conditions and any loan arrangements must be made through Bellway Financial Services using a Bellway nominated solicitor. MK MOTORING

Open weekend launches new estate

FOLLOWING the successful launch of the Skoda Fabia Hatchback last May, Progress Skoda will be holding a very special open weekend on February 9 and 10 where they will be showing off the fabulous, eagerly awaited and all New Fabia Estate.

They will be able to offer test drives over this weekend and have also arranged some refreshments for customers to enjoy while they take a look around the showroom, they will even give your car a complimentary car wash.

As an encouragement to prospective customers and a nice 'tie in' with the popular Television advertisement they will also be offering you the chance to win a fantastic (and delicious) Fabia cake, they will also give a £10 donation to the St John's Hospice in Moggerhanger for every test drive taken over this busy weekend.

Of course, with the New 08 Registration due out in March it's not just about the Fabia Estate, Terence Byrne managing director of Progress Skoda said: "With the offers that we currently have I am certain that customers will find there really is not a better time for them to buy a new Skoda."

For more information contact Progress Skoda at Works Road Letchworth and Shuttleworth Road Bedford.

Conditions of Advertising LSN Media (the publisher)

GENERAL

1. The publisher reserves the right to omit or suspend any advertisement even though accepted and paid for and to make any alterations necessary to maintain standards of the newspaper. The publisher also declines responsibility for the omission of a single advertisement or one or more of a series of advertisements from any cause whatsoever, nor do they accept liability for any loss or damage caused by an error or inaccuracy in the printing of an advertisement. (Advertisers are advised to check their advertisement after the insertion). No re-insertions refund or adjustment will be made where an error, mis-print or omission does not materially detract from the advertisement. The Publisher may at its sole discretion re-insert the whole or part of the advertisement with corrections or refund part or the whole value of the advertisement.
2. The publisher reserves the right to decline any advertisement without giving an explanation or which they deem the content unsuitable for publication, whether an order has been accepted or not. The publisher will not accept orders for advertisements which it deems offensive or defamatory or which infringe the Trades Description Act 1968 and The British Code of Advertising Standards Authority on such matters.
3. An order for advertising services placed by an advertiser or an advertising agency on behalf of an advertiser constitutes an assurance that necessary authorisation or permission has been granted in respect of the use of the advertisement itself, pictorial representation of a living person, references made and words attributed to a living person and text which may be the subject of copyright protection.
4. Printed conditions on advertisement orders will not be recognised as binding unless expressly accepted in writing by the publishers.
5. Advertising rates involving a series, volume or prepayment discount are expressly for the use of the advertiser concerned and are not to divulged to a third party.
6. All artwork designed by the LSN Studio remains the property of LSN Media. Where artwork services are provided, it is on the understanding that it is for the sole use in any of the LSN Media publications unless prior agreement is sought, any unauthorised reproduction will result in a charge being levied on the publisher concerned.
7. Proofs of advertisements are provided upon request but cannot be guaranteed. Where a proof is supplied, the onus is on the recipient to check that all information is correct and to provide the publisher with any neccesary alterations or amendments before the expiration of the deadline. The publisher will not accept responsibility for errors in any advertisement where a proof is supplied and subsequently authorised for publication.
8. Although every effort will be made to meet advertisers requirements, specified positions cannot be guaranteed within the newspaper.
9. All advertisements which carry a premium telephone number must comply with the Code of Practice of The Independent Committee for the supervision of Standards of Telephone Information Services (CSTIS).
10. The advertiser (or his advertising agency) shall indemnify the publisher in respect of all costs, damages or any other charges as the result of legal action or the threat of legal action arising from the publisher of a single advertisement for a series of advertisements, published in accordance with copy instructions supplied to the publisher in pursuance of the advertiser or his advertising agency's order.
11. If an advertisement does not appear due to copy or artwork being supplied after the agreed deadline, the space will be payable in full at the published rates.
12. A request to insert an advertisement assumes acceptance of our Terms & Conditions of Advertising.

DISTRIBUTION

1. Unless otherwise stated, distribution will normally take place within the specified publication to the individual addresses which usually receive the publication within the area and on the date scheduled. This does not necessarily imply 100% delivery to all addresses within the area.
2. The publisher shall not be liable for total or partial non delivery of any publication in which an advertisement is scheduled to appear and no reinsertion, refund or adjustment will be made to the advertiser.

BOX NUMBERS

While every endeavour will be made to forward replies to box numbers to the advertiser as soon as possible, no liability will be accepted by the publisher in respect of any loss, damage or delay in forwarding such replies.

CANCELLATION

1. Cancellation of advertisements must be advised 24 hours prior to the booking deadline. If the publisher is unable to resell the space he reserves the right to charge for any loss of revenue incurred.
2. If any advertiser in receipt of a series, volume or prepayment discount cancels before fulfilling the terms of the agreed order, the publisher reserves the right to make a surcharge up to the full published rates for the type of advertisement.
3. Queries concerning cancelled advertisements must be accompanied by the stop number given at the time of cancellation.

PAYMENT

1. Credit facilities are at the discretion of the publisher, but such facilities are limited to strict terms of 30 days. Late payment of account may lead to suspension of account facilities. Any discount which the publisher may have agreed with the advertiser may be forfeit should the advertiser fail to meet the agreed credit terms.
2. Prepaid accounts must be settled by no later than the two days prior to publication. The publisher reserves the right to suspend any advertisement where payment has not been received.

PREVIEWS

ROTHERHAM
League Two
Saturday, February 9. KO 3pm
stadiummk

MK Dons have returned to winning ways just in time for this first versus third clash with Rotherham.

The Millers have had a tough run of games of late, they have picked up four points from their last four matches, which have all been against promotion rivals.

But life hasn't been much better for the Dons, prior to their 5-1 hammering of Bury they had taken just two pints from 15.

When the two sides met a month ago at Millmoor it took the Dons 82 minutes to break the deadlock in an effective, but ugly smash and grab.

Sean O'Hanlon will miss the match after picking up his fifth caution, but Paul Ince has options with Matt Carbon, right, and Drissa Diallo able to replace him.

Should Diallo move from right-back to centre back as cover for O'Hanlon, new signing Carl Regan could be in for a debut.

SHREWSBURY
League Two
Tuesday, February 12. KO 7.45pm
New Meadow

MEMORIES of travelling to Gay Meadow are not particularly pleasant for MK Dons, but luckily they have a new ground, New Meadow, with no ghosts to haunt them.

Despite a 3-0 win at stadiummk at the start of the season, the defeat to the Shrews in last years play-offs will still be fresh in the mind of everyone involved with the Dons, making this match a little bit special.

Since defeat at the Dons in August life hasn't got much better for the Shrews, sitting in the wrong half of the table they have eleven victories to their name. While eight of them have come at home, they will be hosting a Dons side that travels well, with 11 of their 19 wins away from MK.

TWO of MK Dons' star performers in the 5-1 win at Bury have been named in the League Two Team of the Week.

Hat-trick star Mark Wright, who claimed his first ever treble in a match, is joined in the pick of the weekend players by fellow midfielder Jordan Hadfield.

MK Dons Under-18s drew 1-1 with Cardiff City to maintain their unbeaten status in 2008.

It was the worst imaginable start for the Dons as Stephane Koffi's back pass was picked up by Jonathan Meades and crossed into the box for striker Craig Morgan to tap-in.

But Reis Ashraf, a Coventry striker currently on work experience, managed to rescue a point on the 50th minute when he got on the end of keeper Laurie Walker's long punt up field to loop in the leveller.

DONS' transfer window moves:
IN: Jordan Hadfield (loan extension from Macclesfield Town), John Miles (on loan from Accrington Stanley), Matt Carbon (loan to perm - free), Craig Dobson (Stevenage Borough - undisclosed), Carl Regan (Macclesfield Town - undisclosed)

OUT: Drewe Broughton (on loan to Wrexham), Scott Taylor (Grays Athletic - free), Sam Page (released), John Hastings (released), Mustapha Carayol (loan extension with Crawley), Keiran Murphy (loan extension with Crawley Town) Leon Knight (Wycombe Wanderers - undisclosed).

Mark Wright blasts in MK Dons opening goal

Wright on cue as Dons get revenge

Hat-trick hero pays back Bury for opening game defeat

BY SIMONE CORGAN
simone.corgan@mk-news.co.uk

A THUMPING win for MK Dons has been on the cards for a few weeks now and it eventually came in the form of a 5-1 victory at Bury.

And it was winger Mark Wright who stole the show with the Dons' first away hat-trick and the first of his professional career.

With two draws and three defeats in their previous five fixtures panic buttons have been going off left, right and centre except from in the Dons' camp.

For weeks Paul Ince and his right-hand man, Ray Mathias, have been urging their players to take the chances that fall to them in matches, knowing sooner or later they would convert them.

Although the win at the Shakers was their first win in five, the Dons have clung on to the top spot since the end of September thanks to their form earlier in the season.

But three points were desperately needed to keep Ince's side head and shoulders above their promotion rivals, and with results elsewhere going in their favour the Dons' lead is back up to eight points although Darlington have two games in hand.

The Shakers lived up to their nickname as it was a mistake from Bury's Dale Stephens that gifted the visitors the lead ten minutes in.

Stephens lost his head for a moment, playing a wild pass across midfield which Wright collected before punishing the error by hitting a 20-yard strike into the net.

Pacey Wright was integral to proceedings turning from scorer to provided 13 minutes later, following some fancy footwork down the left, he squared for the on running Lloyd Dyer to tap-in.

Aaron Wilbraham deserved a goal or two for he performance he put in on the day, but instead had to settle for assists, as his neat flick on allowed Wright to manoeuvre into the box and hit the third Dons goal.

The managerless Bury, who have since appointed former player Alan Knill as boss, looked a shadow of the team that beat the Dons at stadiummk on the opening day.

While their second-half performance was a little better, it was a mountain to climb if they were going to get back on level terms.

Wright completed his hat-trick on the 68th minute when he poked home another ball from Wilbraham and at the other end Andy Bishop had a fantastic opportunity to narrow the deficit when he smashed an effort against the woodwork.

The result was beyond doubt when substitute Kevin Gallen came on to grab the fifth before Glynn Hurst claimed a consolation goal for Bury on the 90th minute.

Losing the clean sheet in the dying moments was the only sour note of an impressive team performance according to Mathais.

He said: "We're disappointed for Willy Gueret really, he loves clean sheets, any goalkeeper does. We're five goals up that's the time when we consolidate and make sure we don't concede a goal. Obviously goal difference might come into it at the end of the season."

Mathias is hoping the win will boost moral in the camp and help get the Dons back on track.

"If they go out and do the same thing we can build a lead on the teams and make it hard for them to catch us. Hopefully teams will start being frightened of us again."

FANS' FAVOURITE WRITES FOR YOU

PAUL MITCHELL

FIRST and foremost this week I have to start by saying a big 'thank you' to the away following on Saturday.

As always they were in tremendous voice and, I have to say, made me and my Dad feel very much a part of the MK Army. It was brilliant and gave me a great look at the match from a fan's point of view.

The support I have received this year has been above and beyond anything I could have expected. Let me say now it has kept me going through the harder times of my injury.

What a great performance it was from the boys and, to be honest, that sort of scoreline has been coming for a while. Even though the results haven't been going our way we have never been short on chances . To go to Bury at any time is hard enough, but to put five past them really sends a signal out to all of the doubters trying to write us off and unsettle the team spirit which, it has to be said, has never been stronger.

The new additions coming in will add that competition for places that seems to bring the best out of everybody. There has been some very strong challengers already for player of the season and its a unenviable task to pick the winner. Two players who will be up there are Wrighty and Lloyd who on Saturday terrorised there full-backs. When these two are in that sort of form they are impossible to stop and, now they have set that bench mark, the Gaffer will no doubt be demanding that kind of performance week in week out. It might be a lot to ask Wrighty to get hat-tricks every week but, knowing the Gaffer, he will certainly try!

The big games just keep on coming with us hosting a very impressive Rotherham side on Saturday. If we play with the same passion and finishing prowess as Saturday there will be no problems.

Its going to be another fantastic game so lets all make sure there's an atmosphere to match.

Red Bull boys bullish

RED Bull Racing are flying with just a month until the new Formula One season starts.

The Milton Keynes-based team have set the pace during testing in Spain.

While off the track incidents, in the form of racist abuse suffered by Briton Lewis Hamilton, have hit the headlines Red Bull's fine displays have proven to be a welcome distraction.

It was Mark Webber who set the quickest time during the final days testing at Circuit de Catalunya, clocking 1minute 22.385seconds to edge out the McLaren duo Hamilton and Heikki Kovalainen.

But what impressed designer Adrian Newey and his team was the speed of the car after adding some new aerodynamic and mechanical elements to the car. The most notable change was a large fin being removed from the back of the engine cover.

"It's been a very positive week," said chief test engineer Ian Morgan. "The car has been reliable and we've got through everything that we came here to do. It was encouraging to see Mark at the top of the time sheets, and we're looking forward to the team's next test in Jerez."

Team mate David Coulthard ran eighth quickest as both drivers were able to complete their planned development before rain limited the session.

Red Bull will have chance to test and amend their machines again next week.

Lightning take it to the max

MAXIMUM points from two matches keeps MK Lightning snapping at the heels of Slough and Guildford for top spot in the English Premier League.

Lightning are two points behind leaders Guildford, with a game in hand and look ready to take the race for the title right to the wire.

On the back of two cup defeats and icing without player-coach Nick Poole and injured Michael Wales it was a tough test for Lightning to bounce back to victory, but MK, without ever reaching third gear, passed with flying colours.

Saturday saw Lightning record their fifth win and a whitewash over Wightlink Raiders this season.

Struggling Wightlink are rock bottom and after failing to post a score, were far too poor for Lightning.

Greg Randall continued his fine firing form by opening the scoring six minutes into the match and while chances fell for the remainder of the period Lightning were only ahead by one after 20 minutes.

But it did not take long for Ales Parez to double the advantage five minutes into the restart and when Toni Alasaarela found the back of the net to effectively end Wightlinks chances of a comeback before Grant McPherson wrapped up the points deep into the final period.

In six games Lightning have leaked 21 goals, yet this time round they were able to hold out for their fifth clean sheet of the season.

Sunday's clash with Chelmsford proved to be more testing for Lightning as they battled to keep hold of a lead they held over the lowly Chieftains.

The first and second periods were slow moving, but Parez had Lightning leading the way following his power play goal and Gary Clarke struck at the buzzer for a healthy two goal cushion heading into the final period.

Clarke then struck the third on the 47th minute but Chelmsford found their way through the Lightning defence to reply with their first of the evening.

There were six minutes remaining on the clock when the Chieftains struck there second, pulling the score to 3-2 and ensuring the travelling MK fans were in for a nervous end to the match.

But ex-Chelmsford man Radmall had the last laugh when he bagged the fourth and eventually winner for Lightning, and although the home side managed to sneak in a third a minute from time, it was too little too late.

■ LIGHTNING play host to Peterborough Phantoms on Saturday, face-off is at 7pm and on Sunday the return fixture at Peterborough Arena at 5.30pm.

LOCAL RUGBY

OLNEY moved five points clear at the top of the Southern Counties north league after hammering Newbury Stags 34-0.

But Newbury were forced to start the match with 13 men, after two members of their team failed to arrive for kick-off, and by the time they were at full strength Dean Henrickson and Ross Keanan, with two tried, had already crossed the line to give Olney 17-0 lead.

Minutes before half-time Rhys Peakman popped up with the fourth try to put Olney 22-0 ahead at the break.

On the return to field it was a much quieter performance as Newbury tried to withstand more pressure from the dominant Olney side.

More tries eventually came, with Jamie Haynes collecting a simple offload to touch down his first try for Olney, and Peakman breached a defensive gap late on to complete the convincing win.

BLETCHLEY remain seventh in the West Two east division after losing 7-14 at home to Salisbury.

The fixture had twice been postponed due to waterlogged pitches and Blecthley would have been wishing it was a third time lucky as they failed to turn up on the day.

With nine consecutive wins under their belts Salisbury were always going to be a real test of Bletchley and the home side went 3-0 down after two minutes when Tom Pottage kicked an early penalty.

It took Salisbury 16 minutes to add to their score when Dave Thorpe crossed the line for the first try of the match.

While they maintained the lead for the majority of the first-half, Bletchley were able to beat their napping defence, with fly half Phil Harman diving over and converting his own try to go in 7-8 behind at the interval.

From the re-start Salisbury always looked in control of the game, maintaining possession and denying Bletchley's forwards the opportunity to set up any real attacking offensive.

Bletchley gave away needless penalties and Pottage duly obliged to pick up the extra six points.

As frustration crept in both sides lost a player to the sin bin and Bletchley were unable to muster a second-half come back.

Poulter has since claimed he was misquoted by the magazine after his comments caused a stir at the Dubia Desert Classic tournament.

Good business as the Dons get new general

New boys: Carl Regan and Craig Dobson

Late-night signings

A LOW-KEY January transfer window has been and gone.

While fans awaiting big money moves in the Premier League were disappointed, there was plenty of last minute activity for Milton Keynes.

Paul Ince made two late-night acquisitions to his MK Dons squad which he hopes will add to the push for promotion.

Craig Dobson, a winger who can play also play as a central striker, signed from Stevenage late in the day while the confirmation of defender Carl Regan came at midnight.

Twenty-four-year-old Dobson made 65 appearances for Borough and bagged 15 goals in his months with the non-league side.

And right-back Regan put pen to paper to rejoin Ince, who he worked under during his time at Macclesfield Town, after a mad dash down the motorway following a 7.30pm call.

On signing Regan said: "I got the phone call to get down here and sign so I got in the car and got here as quick as I could.

"The Chairman's told me it's the closest to deadline the Club have signed someone so it's a little bit of history but I'm just ecstatic to be here."

Meanwhile, highly rated youngster Mark Randall agreed to move from Arsenal to Burnley on loan until the rest of the season in a bid to get more first team football under his belt.

The 18-year-old from Bletchley went straight into the Clarets squad and made a 70th minute appearance in their 2-1 defeat to league leaders West Bromwich Albion.

Clarets boss Owen Coyle said: "He is a tremendous addition for us and I am sure he will go on to have an outstanding career. I hope we can play a big part in his development."

> – Dons' new general manager Keith Dickens

BY SIMONE CORGAN

simone.corgan@mk-news.co.uk

MK Dons are building to make sure they are not the next big name to suffer financial trauma.

While players have been coming and going in the January transfer window, one new signing has been kep under wraps – the appointment of Keith Dickens as general manager.

Dickens, who left his chief executive role with League Two rivals Brentford in December just days after coach Terry Butcher departed, has been drafted in to strengthen the business side of the club.

Several successful clubs, most notably Leeds United and Luton Town, have felt serious money strains that have raised doubt over their forcible future.

And while both clubs had been performing relatively well on the pitch, fans were shocked to see their beloved clubs crumble around them.

But Dickens, who spent 31 years with Proctor and Gamble, sees his appointment as a method of securing financial stability at the Dons.

"The number one thing here is to build a sustainable club at Championship level. We look at it now and it's achievable, but how do we build on that?

"All our actions need to be consistent with that on and off the field. Paul (Ince) does it on the field and my job is to do it off the field.

"Looking at the most cost effective use of the budget is vital because you can't continually go on losing more and more money as football clubs tend to do. If that happens the future is in jeopardy."

51-year-old Dicken, who broke his arm on a skiing trip at the turn of the year, was won over by Pete Winkelman's passion and desire to take the Dons places and his enthusiasm has rubbed off.

He said: "On transfer deadline we were in the office, the chairman comes down to sign relevant papers at about half-past-eleven, we are waiting for a player to do his medical and Pete turns to us and says 'this is football rock and roll'.

"He has so much passion, it's the people around here and how well the team are doing that made me want to be here."

And what is his first target?

"Our aim is to make sure we are recognised as a progressive Championship club, with its heart in the community, that puts MK Dons on the map."
